

abducted in that lynching was guilty of murder in the first degree. Any man who gave encouragement by word or presence, or took any part in it, was guilty of murder in the first degree. This question now is simply whether the law shall be enforced by the courts or by a mob, and Rowan county shall, to a man, take a stand on that proposition.

"When lifted to the bottom, you will find, as I have said, that the mob is a character and standing in that mob, I am going to perform my duty as I see it, and have no fear. I said before I apprehended any trouble that the law of the land is stronger than any local mob. I do not take that back, not withstanding the fact that my ears that night 'The mills of the gods grind slowly, but they grind exceedingly fine.' The honor and integrity of Rowan must be preserved."

The grand jury then retired to its deliberating room and court adjourned. The companies of the militia are still on duty around the jail and under military rule.

NEGROES GONE AND TENSION RELIEVED

Frank Bohannon Declared He Killed Beachman—Quiet Trial.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) GREENSBORO, N. C., August 8.—There is an intense feeling of relief here that Frank Bohannon, Kl Crutchfield and Oscar Crutchfield, the three negroes in jail here for the alleged murder of Southern Railway Double Track Foreman Beachman last week, have had their preliminary hearing and will not be in jail here to-night.

The hearing had been set for Friday, but after the strain of yesterday and last night in guarding the jail, counsel for the Crutchfields agreed with the State officials that it would be best to have the hearing this morning. Not over a dozen people knew that the prisoners were brought out of jail.

They were taken by the private entrance to the court-room, where Justices Collins and Wolfe were waiting. Colonel Barringer for the defendant Crutchfields, charged as accessories before and after the murder, waived examination, and the prisoners were remanded to jail without bond. Frank Bohannon had no lawyer.

Responding to a statement of Solicitor Brown that he was charged with killing Beachman, and asked: "Are you guilty or not guilty?" Bohannon, without the least nervousness, arose and said: "I killed him," and sat down. This was all of the proceedings.

The negroes were quickly taken back to jail. Governor Glenn had previously been communicated with, the situation stated, and it was agreed to be sent to the prisoners to Raleigh for safety. They were taken in this morning's train, and by Deputies Crutchfield and Jeffries, and taken to the penitentiary at Raleigh.

Must Put Down Lawlessness.

Editor of The Times-Dispatch:

Sir,—My distress on account of the recent outbreak of lawlessness in Salisbury, N. C., was somewhat eased by your editorial on the subject in this morning's paper. I was born and reared near Salisbury, and the brother of the man who was murdered with his family was one of my first teachers. I knew the murdered man very well. The family was highly respected and law-abiding. The murder was a most brutal one, calculated to arouse the greatest indignation of the friends and neighbors of the family who were so cruelly butchered while in their beds asleep. But sufficient time had elapsed to show that the murder was provided for and which was already in progress. Solicitor Hammer, an old schoolmate of mine, is thoroughly capable and disposed to do his full duty. There is abundant reason to show that the same could be said of the judge and other officials charged with the responsibility of the case. When all these facts are considered, this is one of the most reckless, high-handed, inexcusable outrages that have ever disgraced this Southern country of ours.

I am glad your paper has extensive circulation in North Carolina, and I hope that it may help every good citizen (good in character and with a name) to stand by Governor Glenn in his laudable endeavor to capture and punish these red-headed anarchists. It cool-headed reason, law and order are to predominate over hot-headed anarchy and mob violence. It is time for true patriotism to stand up and to go beyond ordinary efforts in putting down such outrages to decency and civilization as that which occurred in Salisbury. I am

Yours very truly,

W. H. SMITHDEAL,

Richmond, Va., August 8, 1906.

Struck by a Tree.

(Special to Southern Bell Telephone.) LYNCHBURG, VA., August 8.—During the severe storm which swept South Lynchburg yesterday W. Taylor took refuge in a small house built by his father and was badly hurt. The house was blown down by a large tree being blown across the house. He was badly hurt by the tree about the head and face, and this morning he was removed to his home near Rockwell. There is slight hope for his recovery.

"LONE MARINER" AND OMER CRAFT

One Man Who Has Sailed Small Ship Over Many Oceans.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

WILMINGTON, N. C., August 8.—Managed entirely by a lone seaman a queer but substantial appearing craft, one of eighteen tons burden and fifty-three feet length, made this port Monday. The boat is the schooner Anna F., and her entire crew, as well as master, consists of one man, the "Lone Mariner," who in reality is Captain Adolph L. Fritsch, known the world over by the sobriquet. The Anna F. came direct from Florida waters, and expects to go from here to Norfolk, Va. Since she was built four years ago in Mobile she has been manned entirely by the "Lone Mariner," and has been in many a perilous position upon the broad Atlantic. Steering, hoisting and lowering sails, and looking have been Captain Fritsch's daily occupation on board the Anna F.

Before he was master of this craft, which, by the way, he built himself, he crossed the Atlantic Ocean in a smaller boat, also constructed by him, and called the Nina. Leaving Sandy Hook he went on the other side of the world, to Queenstown in thirty-four days and three hours. The voyage was one full of peril, and at one point the rudder broke and the "Lone Mariner" had to steer by means of the rudder blade, which was lashed in position. While on the other side he visited many ports, and finally the Nina was wrecked off the Scottish coast, Captain Fritsch making a narrow escape.

However, narrow escapes have become almost a part of his life, and he has learned rather to expect them. He has traversed both sides of the world, known the chief waterways of America, and has touched often along the Mexican and Yucatan coasts in his boats, and has always been alone. He has created a unique and thrilling part of marine history, and his name is one well known to the seamen of the world, and his adventures from nearly all of the metropolitan papers of the United States and foreign countries.

Captain Fritsch is a Finn, and was born in the city of Aleso over two score years ago, or forty-six years ago, to be exact. He shipped as a lad before the mast and finally landed at Milwaukee, Wis., where he engaged in a sailor's life on the Great Lakes. It was there he built the Nina, steered her alone through the lakes, had her towed through the Erie Canal to the Hudson, and then went on his memorable voyage across the world. The present boat he built in Mobile, Ala., nearly four years ago.

It is interesting to hear Captain Fritsch tell how he manages his craft when on the mighty deep. How he first has to rush to do one thing and then another, while he often has to endure hardships when the elements begin to rage and his boat is tossed high and dither by the fury of the waters.

Many a time he has thought his little vessel would soon be engulfed, but Providence was kind, and the "Lone Mariner" escaped. His boat weathered many storms that have sent schooners larger and manned by many a disaster. His escape, while alone, on his boat, he obtains in brief doses. Often for days he never closes his eyes, and sometimes he is only able to get twenty-minute naps at a time. Then again, if the weather is calm and the course clear, he will sleep for an hour, or perhaps two, but no longer. And he has the habit of when the weather is calm and the "Lone Mariner" has to rush forward over a rocking deck to lower sail and to attend to other necessary matters.

REAL ESTATE DEAL.

Improvements in Atlantic and North Carolina Railroad.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) GOLDSBORO, N. C., August 8.—A large real estate deal was made here yesterday. The valuable St. James Hotel property, owned by Mr. John W. Edwards, on East Center Street, was sold to Mr. George E. Crabtree for the amount of $15,000, the deal being made through Mr. E. L. Edmundson.

VICTIM OF WRECK.

Young Woman Aged 27 and Weighed 360 Pounds.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) CHARLOTTE, N. C., August 8.—Lizzie Bowman, age 24 years, weighed 360 pounds, died at the Good Samaritan Hospital here to-day. She was injured in a wreck near Hamlet two weeks ago and was brought here, with forty others, for medical attention. This brings the death list to twenty-seven. The remains will be taken to Monroe for burial. A special casket had to be provided for the body.

WHAT TO DO WITH THE SOLDIERS

Governor Glenn Willing to Leave It With Judgment of the Local Authorities.

TALKS TO SOCIETY OF FRIENDS

Charles Presley Indicted for Burning His Store to Secure the Insurance.

(Special to Southern Bell Telephone.) RALEIGH, N. C., August 8.—General J. S. Armfield, in command of the troops at Salisbury to protect the jail, and all the lynchings arrested, wired Governor Glenn this evening that he had 140 men under his command, and that all was quiet now. He asked the Governor what disposition he should make of the troops. The Governor telegraphed him in substance to confer with the local authorities, and if they thought it advisable, to hold the men in Salisbury to-night, otherwise, to take steps to have the Charlotte and Statesville companies sent home.

The Governor left here to-night for Guilford College, N. C., that hour he had received no information as to the distribution of the troops.

The Governor goes to Guilford College for the purpose of delivering an address to-morrow before the Friends, who are in annual session there.

The subject of the commission at work on the text-book examining school books offered by publishers for adoption in the public schools of the State completed their work last night, and filed their report with Governor Glenn for the State Board of Education, this morning. The report is voluminous, covering their findings in the examination of all books in every branch of study. The text-book commission will now go through these reports, and beginning August 21st, will hold special sessions for the purpose of hearing all the publishers who desire to be heard on the merits of any books offered for adoption. The board consists of the Governor and State Council, Lieutenant-Governor and Attorney-General.

Deputy Insurance Commissioner W. A. Scott returned to-day from Asheville, where he presided at the trial of the grand jury against Charles Presley, who is charged with burning his store here to get the insurance. Presley has left the country, but every effort will be made to apprehend him.

The case of a probably incendiary fire at Merry oak, this country, is now being investigated by the commissioner, but no arrest has yet been made.

Corporation Clerk W. S. Wilson, of the Department of State, returned this morning from his home in Caswell county, where he spent two weeks very pleasantly.

John C. Drewry, who won such a signal victory in the Wake primaries recently in the race for the Democratic nomination to the State Senate, gave a big barbecue and Brunswick stew to a large party of friends and supporters at Raleigh, this morning.

The Wake county commissioners decided to-day to expend $5,000 on improvements for the county jail, including a considerable enlargement and the erection of cells of the most approved and safest design.

Chief Clerk H. C. Brown, of the Corporation Commission, returned this morning from Albemarle, where he has been with his brother, State Senator J. M. Brown, who suffered a stroke of paralysis last week. A decided change for the better is reported in the condition of Senator Brown, whose left side is affected by the paralysis. There is now strong hope for his ultimate recovery.

ODD FELLOWS.

Grand Encampment in Annual Meeting at Durham.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) DURHAM, N. C., August 8.—The annual meeting of the North Carolina Grand Encampment of Odd Fellows convened in Durham to-night at 8 o'clock. The address of welcome was delivered by Professor J. C. Royall, an important address was responded to by Grand Patriarch L. W. Jeanneret, of Asheville. Committees were appointed and other routine business was transacted, this being the formal opening.

The proceedings of to-morrow will be the election of officers and the selection of the next place to hold the annual meeting.

The attendance is exceedingly large. There are representatives from each lodge in the State, and a large number from the different encampments are present.

IMPORTANT CAPTURE.

U. S. Prisoner from Virginia Went a Year Under False Name.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., August 8.—Deputy Marshal Carroll, acting by Proclamation of the Federal Government, arrested here to-day. Their prisoner was Caleb Tate, who has been working with a section force on the Norfolk and Western Railroad for more than a year under the name of Joseph P. Jones. About two and a half years ago Tate broke out of jail at Hillsville, Carroll county, Va. He had a long record, and was a dangerous prisoner. The charge against him is falsifying a claim against the United States Government. Tate was a witness in the Federal Court at Abingdon, Va., and in making out his claim testified that he was due $800 miles of mileage, where, as it was later shown, he only traveled about 100 miles.

Killed by Train.

(Special to Southern Bell Telephone.)

DANVILLE, VA., August 8.—Edward A. McAlpin, an operative in the new cotton mills at Smithfield, Va., yesterday on the Chesapeake and Potomac Railroad along the track this morning, and died seven hours later at the General Hospital. The man was getting out of the way of a northbound train, when, upon stepping to the other track, he was unexpectedly struck by a southbound train. McAlpin was about fifty years of age and came here about a year ago from North Carolina. He is survived by a wife.

High School Wins.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

SUFFOLK, VA., August 8.—At a special election at Smithfield, Va., yesterday on the question of issuing bonds to the amount of $10,000 for a public high school building, the advocates won by a vote of 86 to 21.

WIFE-BEATER.

Former Soldier of the Cear Under Arrest in Danville.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) DANVILLE, VA., August 8.—Sam Goldstein, a shoe merchant, was arrested in the Mayor's court to-day, charged with cruelly beating his young wife, whom he married in Russia several years ago. He was placed under a bond of $500 for his good behavior towards the woman, pending the trial of the case. Goldstein was a former soldier in the army of the Cear, and came to this country. His wife, whom he is now charged with beating, put up the money for the bond. The man can speak no English. Other Russians here are interfering in her behalf.

OLD WOMAN KILLED.

Negress Struck by Train and Hurled Into the Bushes.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) NEW COTTON NEWS.—August 8.—Margaret Lightfoot, a negress, who, member of her family, was not less than eighty-five years old, was killed to-day by the westbound Chesapeake and Ohio passenger train just after it had left Hampton for Richmond. The old negress was crossing the Chesapeake and Ohio tracks on North King Street when the engine struck her. She was picked up bodily and hurled into the bushes on the south side of the track, landing on her head.

IN THE MOUTH OF FIERY FURNACE

Edward C. Bowler Dragged by Main Force from Awful Death.

IS A RELIGIOUS DEMENTIA

Insane from Sorrow and Sickness, Believed the Lord Commanded Him.

Driven temporarily insane by his weak physical condition, and brooding over the death of his only sister, to whom he was greatly attached, Edward C. Bowler, a young white man, attempted suicide yesterday morning by jumping into a fiery furnace at the Allen & Ginter branch of the American Tobacco Company, on Seventh Street.

He was snatched from the mouth of the furnace by two men who were near him when he made the desperate attempt to end his life. One arm was almost charred, and his face and body were horribly burned. The ambulance was called, and Dr. Mason, one of the surgeons, relieved the suffering of the crazed man and took him to the City Hospital, where he is at present under guard lest he will again try to kill himself.

"The Lord commanded me to jump into a fiery furnace and stay for two or three days," said Bowler, as he was pulled from the door of the furnace by Assistant Engineer William Carter and the colored fireman, Robert Winston.

Had Become Despondent. These words told the story—the man was beside himself. His physical condition was not perfect, and for a long time his relatives had attempted to cheer him up and make him believe that all was right. But all efforts in this direction were in vain. Day by day the man became more despondent and when his sister, Mrs. W. F. Whitehurst, died last week, he appeared to lose all ambition to live.

On last Sunday he joined the church and night before last asked his aunt, Mrs. W. F. Whitehurst, with whom he lived on North Twenty-ninth Street, to pray for him.

Yesterday morning he seemed in good spirits and came to work at the usual hour—7 o'clock. At 7:45 o'clock he attempted to throw himself into the hot furnace.

Leaving the cutting department of the factory, where he was employed, he went to the engine room, which at the time was deserted. He plunged headlong into the doors of the furnace. His head must have missed the opening, for when he was first discovered by Mr. Turner and the colored fireman, Winston, they jerked him away just as he was apparently trying to push himself further into the furnace. The burns did not have any effect on him, for he was not sane when taken from the place.

While almost roasting Bowler was discovered by Mr. Turner and the colored fireman, Winston. They jerked him away just as he was apparently trying to push himself further into the furnace. The burns did not have any effect on him, for he was not sane when taken from the place.

Wanted to Stay in Furnace.

His first words to Dr. Mason were those quoted above. After reaching the City Hospital, he was taken to his room, where he was not allowed to carry out his idea. He did not think he would be injured if he remained in the furnace a day or two.

Bowler is twenty-seven years of age and unmarried. He has lived with his mother, Mrs. W. F. Whitehurst, at No. 500 North Twenty-ninth Street, for a number of years, and has been a steady employee of the Allen and Ginter factory. Last February he was taken with a serious illness, and for a time it was thought that he would die. After many weeks he recovered, but never seemed to be quite himself again. Mrs. Whitehurst and the friends of the young man tried in every way to cheer him, but nothing could bring him out of the settled gloom. When his sister died last Wednesday he became more despondent and was shown every attention that could be expected. It was thought that he was somewhat better yesterday morning when he left home, and the family was greatly shocked on learning of his attempted suicide.

The young man was not taken to his home, because of the nervous condition of his aunt, and will remain at the City Hospital in charge of a nurse and under the eye of a guard until he gets well.

ECCENTRIC BALLPLAYER JUMPS FROM WINDOW

(By Associated Press.) AUGUSTA, GA., August 8.—First Baseman Beck, who was released by the Atlanta Club last night, narrowly escaped death this morning, when, apparently in a mentally unbalanced state, he jumped from a third-story window of the Chelsea Hotel. He struck a number of electric wires and fell into a rose bush. Beck was taken to the hospital, where he was treated yesterday, and is now recovering. He was shown every attention that could be expected. It was thought that he was somewhat better yesterday morning when he left home, and the family was greatly shocked on learning of his attempted suicide.
